Dedication

Dedicated to my granddaughter Evelina, who, with her imagination, brought the colors of the world back again.

1. The Sudden Change

Once upon a time, in Color Town - a magical village full of colors and laughter - there lived a little girl with eyes like the sky after the rain. Her name was Evelina.

Evelina had six magical friends who followed her everywhere:

John the unicorn, who flew above the clouds and left rainbows behind him.

George the sea unicorn, who lived in the Deep Blue River.

Michael the dolphin, who loved songs and made bubbles that shone.

Tessa the zebra, who danced like a leaf in the wind.

Jack the dog, brave and always ready for adventures.

And Zoe the cat, very clever and quick as lightning!

On the day the colors disappeared from Color Town, everything was bright and magical, until a strange and gloomy wind swept through everything and carried the colors far away.

The next morning, Evelina woke up and looked out of her window.

"What happened?" she whispered.

The sky was gray.

The trees, the river, even the rainbow... had all lost their colors!

Frightened, she ran to her friends. John the unicorn fluttered close to her.

"Something is wrong," he said. "The colors... have disappeared!"

"And the sun no longer sings," added Michael the dolphin.

"Perhaps the Evil Shadow is to blame," said Zoe the cat thoughtfully.

"I saw her wandering yesterday in the Whispering Forest..."

2. The First Element

Michael the dolphin brought an old book filled with spells and secrets.

"It says here," said the Dolphin, "that when the colors are lost, three things must be found: the Laughter of Red, the Power of Blue, and the Wisdom of Green."

On the next page there was a riddle:

"Inside the mirror that does not show you,
you will find your first key.
But only if you laugh out loud,
will it appear!"
